The months of September and October herald the slow decline to winter, but let us not get too depressed, as we have Autumn to cheer us. It's that time of year that Keats called the 'Season of mists and mellow fruitfulness'. Autumn is a season famous for its harvest times, turning leaves, cooling temperatures and darkening nights. Autumn is defined by the earth's orbit around the sun and begins on the equinox which falls on September 22nd or 23rd. The shorter days are a sign to trees to begin to prepare for winter.

The word 'equinox' comes from the Latin 'equi' (meaning equal) and 'nox' (meaning night) and so accounting for the equinox marking the time when day and night are of equal length. We often notice the nights begin to draw in from this point as after the autumn equinox, the night is longer than the day, until it is reversed at the spring equinox.

All this symmetry of how the world works in terms of seasons, each with their distinct characteristics, makes me continue to wonder at the Creation and how God put everything together. The book of Genesis recounts that God saw everything he had made 'and it was very good'.

Psalm 8 reminds us: 'When I consider your heavens, the work of your fingers, the moon and the stars which you have set in place'. David was actively 'considering' the creation. He was reflecting, deliberating, pondering. It is an activity we may well do as we see God's hand in creation. Autumn is such a time to revel in the wonderful colours which lift our hearts and give us a helping hand as we change from summer and into winter.

Psalm 8 concludes: 'O Lord our Lord, how majestic is your name in all the world'. Amen to that!

With my prayers,
PETER

Chapel News

Hello from us all at the Chapel, as I write this I begin to think about putting my summer clothes away and looking for warmer garments although so far so good....

Don't forget we are having our Harvest Festival a week early this year to avoid clashing with the Tractor Trundle. It is to be on the 29th September.

Tea will be at 5 p.m to which you are all invited! At 6-30 p.m we will have our traditional Songs of Praise to include all the 'old favourite harvest hymns', the offering from the service will be going to Water Aid so please do support this very worthy cause.

On the 20th October we have our next Healing Service at 6-30 p.m which is to be led by Revd. Chris Lawrence. Please do come along and experience the presence of the holy spirit even if you do not need prayers for healing yourself. It is quite amazing how uplifted one feels after taking part in one of these services and it is certainly an experience you must not miss.

Keep an eye on our website www.ashburnhamchapel.co.uk because we shall shortly be adding a new page called 'Testimonies' and this will include several testimonies from people who have received healing from our Healing Services.

Sadly we have to tell you that vandals have been busy again at the back of the Chapel and this time pulled the pipework and gauges off the wall between the oil tank and the boiler causing them to leak oil. They also ripped the grille off of the boiler again.

Reluctantly we are having to fit CCTV to enable us to catch whoever is responsible and hopefully bring this vandalism to a halt. It is so sad that instead of being able to send more money to charities like Snowflake, Surviving Christmas, Out of the Blue etc., we have to spend money repairing vandalised items and replacing stolen items.

This of course is all new to Ashburnham, we used to be able to leave our doors unlocked and our windows open even when we went out, now we have to lock everything up and have cameras fitted to keep our property safe!

Supported by Ashburnham Church

Dear friends,

It was lovely to meet many of you at Richard and Storm's farewell at the end of June. Thank you for your warm welcome to the village. Some of you have asked how we are doing in our new roles, so here's a little update from each of us:

Joanna, Centre Manager, writes: "It is sometimes said that moving house, changing job and getting married are some of the most stressful things in life. Doing the first two at the same time is certainly challenging and at times I feel like Paddington Bear when he arrived in London from Peru - slightly bewildered and overwhelmed in a new place where I don't really know people yet. After 12 years in my previous role, it is also humbling to start over and be the newbie learning how things work here at Penhurst. At the same time, it's a huge joy and privilege to be in this beautiful and special place, working with a fantastic and supportive team of staff and volunteers, and meeting all our wonderful guests. It's early days, with lots still to learn, but I am so grateful to be here. It was also great to join in the fun at the Flower Show and Country Fair back in July, and although it may take me a little longer as I'm living in Bexhill, I am looking forward to getting to know more of you and about local village activities too."

Nicci, Centre Host, writes: "On some days I feel that I've been here forever. It's been a bit over three months - I can't quite believe it's October already! I would like to say a very big thank you to the staff team and to the volunteers who have been so helpful and kind in showing me the ropes of how Penhurst Retreat Centre works in terms of creating a place of peace, welcome and 'home' to our many guests and visitors. I am looking forward to getting to know many of you too and to welcoming you in, even if it's just for a cup of tea!

I love my role and being in this beautiful place is a privilege and a joy, but not without its challenges. No day is the same and the following elements are just an example of what you will find me doing - herding 'the naughty sheep' from the orchard back into their field before setting up breakfast for guests, leading prayers, meeting guests as they arrive, folding laundry, updating kitchen cleaning schedules and feeding the geese!

Thanks so much,
Joanna and Nicci

Greetings from the Retreat Centre, do have a look at the article elsewhere in the magazine for a bit of an introduction from Nicci and Joanna.

Our wonderful housekeeper is due to have an operation in early October and will be off work for several months afterwards. We would value your prayers for Viv at this time, and for the staff team and volunteers covering her housekeeping and kitchen responsibilities while she is off.

Our gardens take quite a bit of maintaining, so we are also looking for some volunteers to look after particular areas like the flower beds and the patio areas around the house. If you are interested in offering a few hours to volunteer some help in either the house or grounds, either regularly or occasionally, please let us know.

Best wishes from us all.

Gardening and Nature Notes

We have enjoyed some beautifully warm and sunny days in September, even as the evenings draw in earlier and earlier. Lots of flowers are still going strong in the garden, including Cosmos, Dahlias, Gaura, Scabious, Erigeron and Penstemon. I love to grow plants with a long flowering season which keep on delivering colour and interest all summer and beyond! These provide colour and interest in the garden without too much hassle and are therefore really worth growing. They provide a good backbone to the garden, providing continual interest in the garden and also make good cut flowers too. Another group of plants, Japanese Anemones are enjoying a good flowering season at the moment. These pink or white flowers, held high up on tall, slender stems are staples of the late summer and autumn garden and are doing particularly well this year. I am growing a lovely white form, Anemone x hybrids Honorine Jobert at Ashburnham Place and they are lighting up the back of borders and providing real eye catching interest. We also have lots of the pink variety that have self seeded along the Front Terrace, providing a lovely show of colour now most of the roses have finished.

The hedgerows have been full of bounty this year, with blackberries, sloes, bullace and elderberries all in good supply around the field edges and lanes. My freezer is filling up with blackberries which will add flavour to crumbles and cakes over the winter and I'm sure others also have bottles of sloe gin maturing in their larders!

We have seen the swallows depart for their winter migration to South Africa, an amazing journey across oceans, mountains and deserts - a truly remarkable feat for such a tiny bird. It is always wonderful to see them, gathering in large numbers along with house martins prior to leaving our shores and we look forward to welcoming them back next spring. Even more astounding is the journey made by Painted Lady butterflies which have been flying through our gardens in good numbers this year. They too travel many miles to get here for the summer from North Africa, the Middle East and Asia. It is almost impossible to imagine something so delicate and fragile completing such a journey.

Jay Ashworth

On the move

After 54 years of living in or near to Ashburnham, I shall be moving to North Yorkshire at the beginning of October. I am amazed that this has all come about so quickly. After being so involved with Ashburnham Place, Ashburnham and Penhurst Churches, the WI, the Flower Show, and so many other events and organisations for so long, I am determined to keep in touch with all the good friends I have made.

My new home is just five minutes from the A1M at Scotch Corner, so if you want a stopping place on your way up to Scotland or the Lake District, or if you would like a few days in a beautiful part of the world, please get in touch. I have a spare en suite bedroom just waiting for its first guests, and lots of space for entertaining!

My contact details will be as follows, and I would love to welcome visitors from Sussex any time.

The Ashburnham Estate & Family – The end of the line?

Bertram, 4th Earl of Ashburnham came from a large family and a very long Ashburnham ancestry stretching back to 1066. He had seven sons and four daughters and vast ownerships of land centred on Ashburnham Place, as well as moving in royal circles. He did not want for anything in material or worldly terms. And yet, much was about to change for the Ashburnham family and its estate...

Every single one of the 4th Earl's seven sons died without a surviving son. So although his eldest son Bertram did become the 5th Earl, when he died in 1913 all his brothers except one, Thomas, had also passed away. Thomas, married and living in Canada returned as the 6th Earl and hosted a dinner for all the tenants. After serving in the First World War he went back to Canada. Only in 1924 did he plan a second visit to Ashburnham since inheriting the estate. However tragically he caught pneumonia and died en route. So the village held a funeral rather than a homecoming.

The Funeral of 6th Earl of Ashburnham

This meant there were no more direct male descendants in this family line. So with the death of the 6th Earl the rules of primogeniture meant that his niece, Lady Catherine Ashburnham, daughter of the 5th Earl, inherited in 1924. When she died in 1953 the "entail" (the legal document protecting the estate's assets by ensuring each heir only inherited the "right to income for life" as a "life tenant" and not able to sell the house or any estate assets) directed that the inheritance passed into the female line to find the nearest male heir. That was my late father John Bickersteth, at the time studying theology for ministry in the Church of England. So we come full circle to where we started this series of articles.

However if my father, known as "Mr John" locally, were alive today he would point to many elements of this story which he felt were remarkable and perhaps confirmed that God's hand was behind all this momentous change in the Ashburnham family and estate.

By way of example, when they came to bury Lady Catherine, her coffin filled the forty-fifth and final space in the family vault below Ashburnham Church. Given this vault was created by John "the Cavalier" Ashburnham almost 300 years before, was this a sign of the "end of an era"?

Another was that my father was born in 1926, a full two years after the last Earl of Ashburnham, Thomas, died in 1924. If he had been born within the lifetime of the Earl (or if either of his older sisters had been male), then he would have been legally bound by the "Entail" and not able to break it and thus become the "outright owner". He would not then have been able to do what he did with his inheritance of Ashburnham Place and the wider estate, which he strongly believed was what God had guided him to do.

Ladder of Life

Life is a ladder we all must climb
Some don't climb very high
Which is very sad
A lot can happen in life as we all know
Sometimes happy sometimes sad

So keep going up til near the top
Think of life as a clock
None of us know when it will stop
So thank the good Lord
For all the long years we have had
Try to keep happy til he calls our name

God bless everyone

Easter Monday*

Colin Young has asked to include this poem in the magazine, it was written by his brother, Henry James Edward (Harry) who died on 9th August aged 85. In the 1950s and 1960s Harry worked on Agmerhurst farm tending the dairy short horn herd kept by Mr Hind.

I was saddened to read (earlier in the magazine) about the continued vandalism at the Chapel which is not only proving costly to the congregation but also must be most upsetting. The Chapel is one of three places of worship in our villages and members support our community in many ways through fundraising, helping with clubs and societies and offering a warm welcome to their services and regular events. This goes against the values we hold dear and the community spirit that makes our villages such unique and lovely places to live. I do hope that nothing like this happens again at the Chapel or anywhere else.

Parish Council News

Landscaping in front of the cricket pavilion where the old cricket pavilion once stood is looking more mature now that the grass has grown. However, there are still some improvements needed to make it more accessible as an amenity area especially for people who arrive by car.

This is one of a range of issues in front of the parish council as it embarks on putting together a Parish Plan for the period 2020-25.

Parish Plans have no statutory standing and there is no statutory requirement for a parish to have one, but it makes sense to have a forward looking view of the next 3 to 5 years as a guide to day to day decision making. Led by the council's new Chairman, Andrew Hoad, the plan will be developed over the next few months. A number of questionnaire surveys have been conducted in the village in recent years so the issues uppermost in people's minds are well documented. You can have your say in how action plans are developed in a number of ways. You can make contact by any means that suit with any councillor or the parish clerk. You could also express interest in being coopted to be a parish councillor as the council still has two vacancies. It doesn't matter whether you live in Penhurst or Ashburnham but you must live within three miles of the parish boundary.

New village hall design drawings have reached the stage where they are now suitable for submission for building regulations approval. However, first we await the decision from Rother planners on the application for approval of roof tiles, cladding and exterior lighting. Once that hurdle is cleared the design drawings will be developed into a version for each trade so that tenders can be requested and that is planned for November. The project is being managed by an advisory committee of the parish council, the New Hall Steering Group, which met in August and September. The committee meets in public, just like the parish council, and the agenda is published three clear working days before the meeting. Members of the public are welcome, do come along and have your say.

Council meetings are on the last Wednesday of alternate months (next is 27 Nov 2019) and Planning Committee (if required) meets on the last Wednesday of intervening months.

All meetings are in public and members of the public are encouraged to attend. There is an agenda slot near the start of the meeting for members of the public to address the Council. The agenda is published online at the village web site three clear days before the meeting and hard copy is put on the notice boards at The Chapel and Penhurst Granary.

A summary of currently undecided or recently determined planning applications is on the 'Planning' page at the village web site. It contains a link to the Rother DC planning portal if you want to view documents.

New Village Hall Update

By the time you read this, the work on the improved entranceway should be near completion and a new height barrier (which will be easier to open) is being designed. We hope that everyone who uses the site will benefit from these improvements.

A site storage container will be positioned just inside the boundary by the entranceway in readiness for the impending start of building works.

Our next fundraising activity will be the Village Bonfire and Fireworks on Friday November 8th, we look forward to seeing you there!

Thanks from Cliff and Anne Colwell
