'Faster, Higher, Stronger'

During the 2024 Olympic and Paralympic Games in Paris, a global audience will watch as 10,500 athletes seek to earn a podium position and etch their name into Olympic and Paralympic Games history. Do you have a 'stand out' Olympian, either past or present? For me, Eric Liddell is 'up there' among the Olympic greats.

Liddell was born in 1902 in China to Christian missionaries from Scotland. While his parents continued to work in China, Liddell was educated in London and, at an early age, became a Christian himself. He took his faith seriously, always mindful that as Jesus Christ had died for him, so his life should be spent serving other people and God.

At school Liddell was an outstanding sportsman, and while studying science at university he played for Scotland's national rugby team. In 1923 he shifted focus to athletics, where he was soon recognised as the fastest runner in Scotland. Consequently, he was selected for the then Team GB in the 1924 Olympics in Paris; Liddle was deemed to be the likely winner of the 100m sprint. However, in response to what God had done for him Liddell determined to keep Sunday free from sport – needless to say, when he heard the 100m heats would be held on a Sunday, he refused to take part. It was a courageous decision which provoked enormous pressure, from the Olympics management and the popular press, to change his mind. However, he refused to compromise his faith and instead trained for the 200m and 400m races – he won bronze in the 200m but was not expected to do well at 400m.

On the morning of the race Liddell was handed a slip of paper on which was written the Bible quote: 'He who honours me (God), I will honour'. Encouraged, Liddell took the race at sprint pace and won, breaking Olympic and world records. Already well-known because of the battle with his principles, Liddell's dramatic and surprising victory made him a global celebrity.

After the Olympics, Liddell rejected various appealing opportunities in sport by announcing his firm conviction to serve God in China, where he became a teacher in a Christian college in 1925. Five years later he returned to Scotland to be trained as a church minister, before returning to China, where he married his wife. During the 1930's a brutal three-way war between the Nationalists, the Communists and the invading Imperial Japanese Army, made life in China increasingly perilous. In 1941 British nationals were advised to leave. Liddell's children and his wife – pregnant with their third child – left. But Liddell stayed and along with other missionaries was imprisoned in a brutal prison camp in 1943. He continued to help the elderly, encourage the depressed, resolve quarrels, and teach the Bible. He also prayed for the inmates and his captors.

Malnourished, Liddell's health failed and in 1945, just five months before liberation, he died from a brain tumour aged just 43. Although Eric Liddell was widely mourned at the time of his death, he was soon forgotten. However, his story returned to the world's attention in 1981 with the Oscar-winning film, Chariots of Fire.

Those who knew Eric Liddell recalled how he shone as a man who lived for others because he lived for Christ. Clearly, he was a man of conviction and compassion who, for me, remains an inspiration.

God bless, Revd Gary

Parish Council News

When the Parish Council levelled some recriminations at East Sussex Highways over the collapse of the Farthing Lane bridge they were quickly batted away. The Parish Council said that it would be keen to know what future measures would be put in place to keep the culvert under the road clear of debris so that water no longer flowed across the road when there was heavy rain. The Parish Council's assertion is that overflowing the road is a recent phenomena, say over the past four years, prior to which Highways had kept the culvert clear. As a direct result of water flowing over the road the retaining wall was eroded and collapsed.

The reply came back that with over 1000 bridges to maintain, Highways do not have the resources to keep the culvert clear and that bankside landowners also have a part to play in maintaining vegetation along the banks of the stream just as landowners do with hedges abutting the highway.

This is going to cause a rethink about the role of the Parish Council if Highways are going to step back. In the coming months you can expect to see discussions starting with land owners and tenants to chart a way forward. As this magazine arrives so does a new government. A recent incoming administration was handed a note from The Treasury, "Sorry, there's no money". This time it will be worse, a second line, "and there are lots of debts." And with East Sussex County Council, in common with most others, now spending two thirds of their budget on Adult Social Care and care for the homeless (compared with half in 2010), maintenance in the rural environment won't improve any time soon.

For now, enjoy the summer and the events such as the Vintage Motor Cycle concours and the Country Fair and Flower Show in July plus lots of cricket at the weekends.

Council meetings are on the fourth Wednesday of alternate months and the next one will be on Wednesday, 24th July 2024. The Planning Committee (if required) meets on the fourth Wednesday of intervening months. A list of councillors' lead responsibilities can be seen on the village website at www.ashburnham-penhurst.net

All meetings are in public and members of the public are encouraged to attend. There is an agenda slot near the start of the meeting for members of the public to address the Council. The agenda is published online at the village website three clear days before the meeting and hard copy is posted on the notice board at The Chapel. Minutes of meetings are published on the village website.

We are in an important season of transition here at Penhurst as God is undoubtedly moving. His hand has been on several comings and goings over the last few months and now we have another team update to announce. Joanna writes, "It is with mixed emotions that I want to let you know that I will be leaving Penhurst in mid-August. It has been a real privilege to serve God as Centre Manager for the last five years, to be part of His ministry here and see him at work in and through the lives of our guests, retreat leaders, staff and volunteers. I will continue to support this special place in prayer and whatever other ways I can. As for me, I am looking forward to some rest and refreshment for myself as I trust the Lord to lead me into the next season he has for me."

We are pleased to announce that Jason Cottingham will be stepping up as Centre Director on an interim basis from early July. His familiarity with centre's operations and his commitment to the church, mission and hospitality management make him well-suited to leading during this transition period.

Gardening and Nature Notes

Don't forget to enter your wonderful home grown vegetables, fruit and flowers into the Flower Show on 27th July, it's really a great experience to enter and exciting to see how well you've done on the day.

July and August are great months to look out for Glowworms, the females glow to attract a mate. Head out soon after it gets dark and look carefully in grassland, verges and path edges. If you do spot any, leave well alone but record your sightings of these elusive insects. I have often found them in the verges opposite The Pound Junction so you might find them nearer than you think! You can find out more here and record any sightings

Murmurations

It's early one summer morning and I'm talking to a dog-walker on the highest swathe of Pevensy beach. Valerian (in shades of pink and cream), silvery sea kale, crimson poppies and bold ox-eye daisies are in abundance all around us. I don't mind the break and a chat before I turn back. I've just run a long way along the eastern curve of the bay on the wet sand of the low spring tide, jumping the salty streams and wading out a little here and there to find stranded-spit islands of my own.

One of the lures of the coast is the ever-changing view and the beach homes here, strung along the shingle, have no need of TVs; the clouds, sea and beach, the colours and wildlife - birds, foxes and seals - give plenty of passive entertainment. There is normally a racy south-westerly breeze which pushes the weather across the frame of sight: one moment there's blue sky, bright and breezy with seagulls gliding and clouds scudding across and the next, an ethereal light as the sky darkens in the west, heavy as lead; the gulls lift and plunge while the sea becomes an irritable steely-grey. There's always change here, and always change in life. As I return to the shoreline for my run back, (I have to be somewhere soon) I realise that this constant state of flow and flux has caught me out... the tide has turned and just a tiny sliver of sand remains; there is only the pebbly sweep of the bay the whole way back and I'm barefoot! Carefully, I run.

Grounding (connecting our electrical bodies with the electrons of the earth) has many health benefits, and occasional disadvantages. As I run, I recall barefooting on beaches in the past - happy memories including: the occasion I trod on a weaver fish; the moment I dropped deep into a gaping, bubbly hole of sinking sand; the time I got caught by a fish-hook, and the stubbing of my big toe on a small rock. These are now reminders for me to be in the moment, observant and mindful. Grounding reduces inflammation (and pain); increases energy (yet aids sleep); supports adrenal health; normalises blood pressure; lowers stress and protects our bodies from electro-magnetic radiation. Walking, sitting or lying with our skin in contact with the earth or body of water is our free natural resource. We can combine this with the positive effects of exposing at least forty percent of our bare skin to the sunlight, which generates the body's natural production of vitamin D - essential for supporting our immune system. So, enjoy the summer - however you do it!

Robin Ratcliffe Receives Long Service Award from Sophie, Duchess of Edinburgh at the South of England Show

This is the testimonial written into the show programme,

“This summer Robin Ratcliffe will have completed a 50 year career in farming. He knew very soon after he left school that he wanted to farm and has worked at Brigden Hill Farm in Ashburnham all his working life. For the last 45 years he has worked with Jane and Bob Andrew and their family. For the first 23 years, he was instrumental in building up and running a very successful dairy herd, which in the 1990s won many local and regional dairy herd competition. His excellent attention to detail helped the farm reach the National Finals of the British Grassland and Silage competition. Sadly after 22 years the dairy herd was sold and since then Robin has been working the farm’s beef cattle. His expertise as a natural and patient stockman is very much appreciated by Jane and Bob and his enthusiasm for farming has helped the farm achieve great results and inspired some work experience students into the farming industry. Robin is also a very experienced tractor driver, an able mechanic and ‘Jack of all farm trades’. In the village of Ashburnham he is heavily involved as a committee member of different clubs and organisations, runs the village bonfire night, is caretaker of the village hall and does a lot of other unseen voluntary work. He is very hard working, loyal, friendly and always cheerful. Robin works well as part of a team, has a good sense of humour and without his support over the years the farm would not have flourished as it has. We thank him for all he has done during this long service with us and hope he doesn’t retire too soon!”

Huge congratulations to Robin for a well deserved award and thank you for all you do for our community.

Chapel News for July and August

It was lovely to see so many of you at our 60 th Anniversary Celebration on the 2nd June. We were blessed with a lovely day which all added to the enjoyment.

On the 21 st July we have Revd. Peter Walker coming all the way from his new home in Worcestershire to lead our Healing Service. It would be great if those of you that know Peter can come and support him at this Service. I am sure he and Diana would be thrilled to see you all again. It doesn't seem possible that we have already passed the longest day and now each day will get a little shorter until before we know it, we will be back in the winter with dark nights. As I was driving from Chapel at the beginning of June I remarked to Michael how lush our countryside is. It occurred to us that if global warming is going to give us the high temperatures we are promised, we could see our lovely green fields and roadsides turn into burnt up grass in mid summer, as one does when driving around the warmer climates of Europe. I know when we had a holiday home in Cyprus, we couldn't help noticing how everything is burnt up in the summer sunshine from June until October when hopefully the rains come again. Then when we returned home and flew over the Sussex coast to Gatwick it was 'a sight for sore eyes' to see our lovely green trees, fields and roadsides. We always remarked at all the different shades of green and what a wonderful feeling of 'home' came over us as we fastened our seat belts for the landing. Could we be entering the age of Revelations 8 v 7 which says; "The first angel sounded his trumpet, and there came hail and fire mixed with blood, and it was hurled down upon the earth. A third of the earth was burned up, a third of the trees were burned up, and all the green grass was burned up." Or maybe 2 Peter 3 v 10 – 13 "But the day of the Lord will come like a thief, The heavens will disappear with a roar; the elements will be destroyed by fire, and the earth and everything in it will be laid bare. Since everything will be destroyed in this way, what kind of people ought you to be? You ought to live holy and godly lives as you look forward to the day of God and speed its coming. That day will bring about the destruction of the heavens by fire, and the elements will melt in the heat. But in keeping with His promise we are looking forward to a new heaven and a new earth, the home of righteousness." We are so very blessed to live in this part of the world. I know we have to negotiate pot holes, the odd power cut or water shortage. But if we all stop to think, compared with other parts of our country and the world as a whole, we are very cocooned here, Praise Our Wonderful Lord! We continue to run our Chapel Service live on Zoom every Sunday evening and would love you to join us. Panto is back!

Thursday 21st to Saturday 23rd November

At Ashburnham Village Hall (7.30pm)

More details in September.

Ron's Ramblings.

I was watching an interview with Patrick Grant, the co-presenter of the Great British Sewing Bee and campaigner against fast fashion waste, recently. He's a great advocate of well made and durable clothing that will last for years instead of cheap and throwaway. It brought to mind my recent sartorial episode. Just before last Christmas Mrs K. and I were invited to a black tie function, which prompted me to retrieve my monkey suit from the depths of my wardrobe. Imagine my horror when I discovered that the trousers had shrunk since the last time I'd worn them. How does that happen ?

The suit, by the way, was bought for twenty quid in a south London charity shop. So imagine my delight when trying it on at home and finding in one of the pockets was a ten pound note. Result !

So that was it. It had finally reached the end of the road. The end of the road after some fifteen years in my possession and probably forty years since it was tailored by Austin Reed. Off it went to the Sally Army clothes recycling bin in Battle. Off, hopefully, to a new life perhaps on another continent. I can see it now. Paraded in front of admiring young ladies in Brazzaville in the Congo, by the Sapeurs. The Sapeurs are the Beau Brummells of Africa. Dandies who wear the most amazing and colourful clothes. Look them up on the internet if you are so minded. They are a joy to behold. So perhaps my suit has another forty years ahead of itself ?

By the way. Do you know the origins of the term Monkey Suit ? It apparently stems from the time when King Edward VII would entertain his lady friend, Alice Keppel, at the Grand Hotel on the Leas in Folkstone. They would dine in the glass fronted restaurant looking out to sea, with the common people filing past the hotel hoping to catch a glimpse of the couple. Just like monkeys in a zoo.

A date for your Diary.
